

Help your students learn about goal setting and developing a growth mindset with these activities!

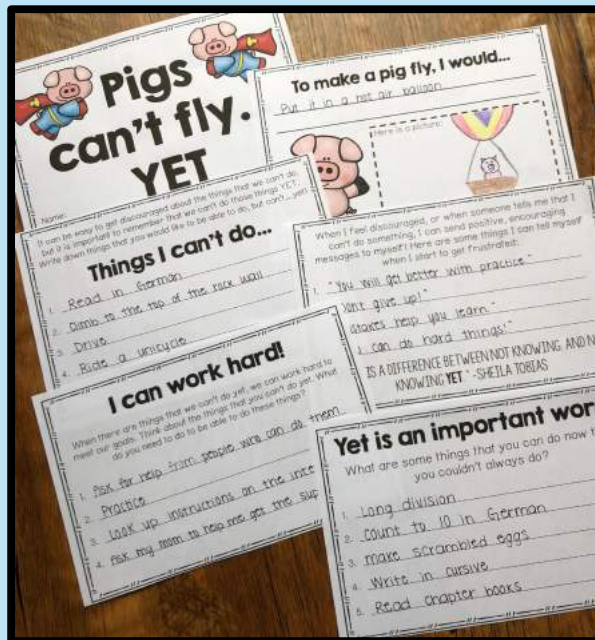

These activities are perfect for:

- Growth mindset lessons or small groups.
- Perseverance lessons or small groups.
- Goal setting lessons or small groups.
- Students who give up easily.
- Students who could benefit from setting achievable goals.

Includes a poster and coloring page!

The poster comes in color and black and white, and can be displayed in your classroom/office or be used as a visual aid during the rest of the activities in this resource. The black and white version can also be used as a coloring page.

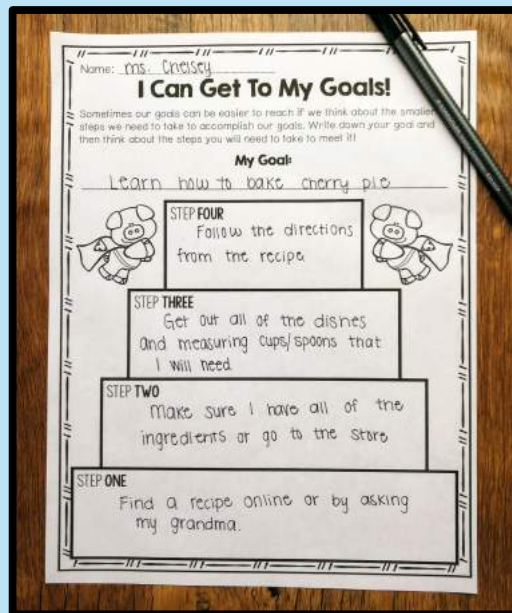

Includes a 6 page booklet!

Students will reflect on goals that they have, and consider how they can reach their goals. Students will be encouraged to develop a growth mindset by using the word “yet!” Booklet pages come in color and black and white.

Includes 2 bulletin board sheets!

These two sheets can be completed by students and used as part of a bulletin board or classroom display. Students will consider why the word yet is important, and/or write about something they want to be able to accomplish.

“I Can Get To My Goals” Worksheet

Students will write about a goal they have, and then consider 4 steps they can take to accomplish their goal.
